Research Day 2013

7 June 2013, The Barony Hall

This year, the University of Strathclyde Research Day has a new format which will be based around the theme of public engagement, with a particular focus on schools engagement. During the morning/early afternoon session 100 primary pupils attending from 9 primary schools will visit the University and take part in nine themed 'Meet the Researcher' exhibits. As always, there will be the Dragons' Den style event where University academic staff pitch for research funding of £20,000 (deadline for applications 15 April 2013) and many more opportunities for researcher staff and students to get involved.

The event celebrates Strathclyde's research achievements and provides an opportunity for sharing good practice between disciplines, while promoting effective collaboration. Come along, participate and learn about the current research and public engagement activities being conducted at the University. URD is part of the Glasgow Science Festival.
