Conference of Astronomy and Physics Students 2017

27-30 June

| Hosted by
University College London

Registration is open to attend the Conference of Astronomy and Physics Students 2017 to be held 27-30 June at University College London (UCL).

Held annually at different universities across the UK, CAPS is a fantastic opportunity to meet physics students from different institutions. For four days, you will attend guest lectures and early career research talks from fellow students, explore career paths and be taken on lab tours, with social activities every evening.

Highlights of the conference include tours of the National Physical Laboratory, guest speaker Prof. Sir John Pendry and the boat party.
